Who are we?

The North East Uni Connect Programme (NEUCP), formerly the North East Collaborative Outreach Programme (NECOP), is a group of all of the universities and colleges¹ in the North East of England working together to support young people to think about their futures and how higher education can help them reach their goals. FutureMe is the name of the activities that we offer to students. Newcastle University is the lead university for NEUCP and act as the lead data controller. This means that they are responsible for all of the information we collect.

Why are we collecting your information?

We have to collect some information about you to help us plan and run our activities that you or the young people you have responsibility for attend. For example:

- If you attend one of our events online or in person, we may gather some health information so that we can ensure we can make any reasonable adjustments to allow you to fully participate in the event.
- We may need to request your permission to allow the young person you have responsibility for to attend an activity or event, online or in person, or provide responses to surveys and evaluation activities.
- We may gather some survey information directly from you about how useful you feel our activity or events are, so that we can evaluate the impact of them and learn how we can improve in future.

As per data protection laws, we have to have a legal basis for collecting your information. We believe that the work we are doing to support young people to progress to higher education is in the public interest and that is why we collect your data.

In an emergency or safeguarding situation, we may need to share your data and would do this on the basis of legal obligation.

What information could we collect?

- Your Name
- Your Address
- Your Phone number/email address
- Your relationship to the young person
- The school the young person attends
- Any special requirements you might have, including medical or dietary.
- Surveys about how useful you found the activity or your opinions about higher education

¹ NEUCP is a collaboration between Bishop Auckland College, City of Sunderland College, Darlington College, Derwentside College, Durham University, East Durham College, Gateshead College, Hartlepool College of Further Education, Queen Elizabeth Sixth Form College, Middlesbrough College, New College Durham, Newcastle College, Newcastle University, Northumbria University, Prior Pursglove and Stockton Sixth Form College, Stockton Riverside College, Teesside University, The Northern School of Art, Tyne Coast College, and University of Sunderland.

How are we collecting your information?

There are a number of ways that we might gather your information, all depending on the type of FutureMe activity or event you or your young person participates in.

- If you/your young person take part in FutureMe activities and events in person, but outside of their school or college, we may be required to gather some of your information directly from you.
- If you/your young person take part in FutureMe activities and events online, we will be required to gather some information directly from you. If we need your personal information to participate in online events, you will likely be asked to complete a secure short form on our website or on a secure platform procured by Newcastle University.

Our team will process your data – it will be stored and processed securely using a platform procured by Newcastle University.

We will keep your information for no longer than 5 years following the close of the NEUCP project.

Who will it be shared with?

We may share your information with our partner institutions so that we can administer the programme. If we have any concerns about the welfare of your young person, we have a legal obligation to share your information with government agencies.

We require all those who we share your information with to protect it and to only use it as we have agreed.

Will this have an impact on you?

There will be no impact on you. You will never be individually identified in any reports we write and confidentiality will be maintained at all times, when handling your information. Your information will not be sold to third party organisations. The FutureMe team will only send marketing communications to you if you have provided us with your consent to do so.

What are your rights?

- You can request to look at the information we hold about you. You can do this by visiting <http://www.ncl.ac.uk/data.protection/accessyourpersonaldata> or by contacting us using the details below.
- You can request that we change your information to make sure it is correct. Please let us know if at any time your personal information changes.
- We ask for your consent to collect health data, marketing permission and photography permission. If you do give your consent, you can change your mind at any point by contacting the FutureMe team at the contact details below.

We do not charge for any of the above and we will do our best to respond to all requests within one month. Occasionally it may take us longer than a month if your request is particularly complex or you have made a number of requests. In this case, we will contact you and keep you updated.

How can you contact us about your data?

You can reach the FutureMe Central Team via email. Please contact info@outreachnortheast.ac.uk.

Our postal address is:

The University of Newcastle upon Tyne, King's Gate, Newcastle upon Tyne, NE1 7RU.

If you have any concerns about your information, you can contact our Data Protection Officer at:
